

During the World War II, the area of the elephant house up to the giraffes house was occupied by the Germans and separated from the rest of the ZOO with barbed wire. The modern elephant house was opened in 2003, same as the facility for armored rhinos, built in the place of the old elephant house.